Forms, uses, and contexts

- 2 We use this pattern to form the passive:

subject + be + past participle

(For details on forming past participles, see p. 14.)

- 3 The form of be is different for different verb tenses:

PRESENT SIMPLE PASSIVE

subject + am/is/are + past participle

I'm employed by a big company.

PRESENT CONTINUOUS PASSIVE

subject + am/is/are + being + past participle

The road is being repaired.

PAST SIMPLE PASSIVE

subject + was/were + past participle

It was made in China.

PAST CONTINUOUS PASSIVE

subject + was/were + being + past participle

People were being interviewed.

PRESENT PERFECT PASSIVE

subject + has/have + been + past participle

He has been given a new job.

MODAL PASSIVE

subject + modal + be + past participle

Applications must be received before 12 May.

GOING TO PASSIVE

subject + am/is/are going to + be + past participle

I'm not going to be chosen for the team.

Grammar in action

- 1 We use the passive when the person who 'does' the verb is not important or we don't know who 'does' the verb. The object of the verb is more important, so it becomes the subject of the sentence and we use a passive verb:

The college was built in 1947.

(= Some people built the college in 1947.)

Here, the college is the subject of the sentence because the man is talking about the college. He is not talking about who built the college, and he may not know who built it. He uses a passive verb because the college is not the subject of the verb (the college did not build anything).

- 2 We often use the passive in formal contexts, such as public information (rules, signs, brochures, etc.) and media reports:

Cycling is not permitted in this area. (Cycling is the subject of the rule, not who does not allow it.)

Bookings can be made online. (Bookings is the subject of the sentence, not the people making them).

PASSIVE The team is going to be chosen tomorrow.

5 We often use by after a passive verb form to say who or what is the subject of the verb. We use by before the 'agent' (the person or thing that 'does' the action):

The programme is watched by millions of people.

(= Millions of people watch the programme.)

Children must be accompanied by an adult.

(= An adult must accompany children.)

Grammar in action

3 We use the active or the passive depending on what is the main topic we are talking about or what we are most interested in. We use the active if the subject of the verb is the main topic, and the passive if the subject of the sentence is not the subject of the verb because the subject of the verb is not important or not known:

Lions live in parts of Africa and southern Asia. They belong to the cat family. Lions are hunted and killed in some places. They can be seen in many zoos.

Here, the topic is 'lions'. 'Lions' is the subject of 'live' and 'belong', and so those verbs are active. 'Lions' is not the subject of 'hunted', 'killed' or 'seen' – other people hunt, kill and see lions – and so those verbs are passive.

4 We use by + agent after a passive verb when it is important to say who 'does' the verb because the sentence would have no real meaning without this information:

The painting 'Sunflowers' was painted by Vincent Van Gogh. It is a very famous painting.

In the example, the main topic is the painting – it is the subject of the next sentence. But the artist's name is important information. We use by + agent because the sentence is about both the painting and the artist, and the artist (the agent) is not the subject of the verb.

F Short story competition

This is an announcement on a children’s TV programme about a competition. Rewrite the announcement, changing the active forms into passive forms with by.

As you know, this programme runs a short story competition every year, and every year, children from all over the country send in stories for the competition. And I know that many of you are creating fantastic stories right now. Last year a story called ‘Creeps’ won the competition and Ellie Stone, aged 12, wrote that story. The teenage magazine YLP published it and many thousands of people all over the country read it. This year the film director Marvin White is going to judge the competition. And this year, a film studio in London is offering the top prize – Marvin will make the winning story into a short film after the competition. This channel will show that film later in the year.

As you know, a short story competition is run by this programme⁰ every year, and every year¹ from all over the country for the competition. And I know that² right now.
